Overview

Azuba CCM 8 Express OnDemand Option integrates with Web portals to enable customers to interactively create, view and optionally distribute documents without requiring help from one of your employees.

In the past, customers could wait several days before they received documents related to a customer service request. Companies spent a lot of time and money responding to such requests, but customers were often dissatisfied with the quality of documents received as well as the turnaround times.

Today's customers want instant access to information, and businesses are turning to web-based applications for everyday activities, especially when it comes to customer communications. Web portals enable customers real-time access to their personal information. By allowing customers to create, view and request documents on-line, businesses save money with reduced calls to their customer service centers and reduced postal costs. Even more importantly, customer satisfaction and retention are increased.

Azuba CCM Express OnDemand Option provides the tools you need to integrate powerful document creation, distribution and archival capabilities within your customer self-service Web portal. Utilizing Azuba CCM 8 Version Control functionality, the Compose on Date feature even allows a document to be created based on a past date, using the specific content objects that were in production as of the date specified.
